CTHmaps User guide

CTHmap is a service where a user from a list can choose lectures room and buildings at Chalmers University of Technology and get the direction from your current location to your target. When you enter a building you can change to an indoor view and navigate between the floors so even if you loose your GPS signal you can find the building or lecture room you requested.

What you can do

- View the map and choose a new destination directly from the map
- Choose a building or lecture room located at Chalmers University of Technology and get the direction from your current location to your target.
- Use a browse button and get all main entrance of Chalmers main buildings.
- When entering a building you can change to an indoor view (a painted map) and then be guided to your target from the entrance.
- Change between satellite view and street view.

What you cannot do

- Create new target